

PROMOTE POLLINATORS

Secretariat of the Coalition of the Willing on Pollinators

TOWARD AN ORGANIZATIONAL MODEL

CoP CBD14, Sharm-El-Sheikh, Egypt
18 November 2018

Developments until now

- Coalition formed in December 2016
- First working session, IPBES, Medellin, 17 March 2018
- Several sign-up events during 2018
- 24 Members as of 14 November
- Website promotepollinators.org up & running
- Newsletter

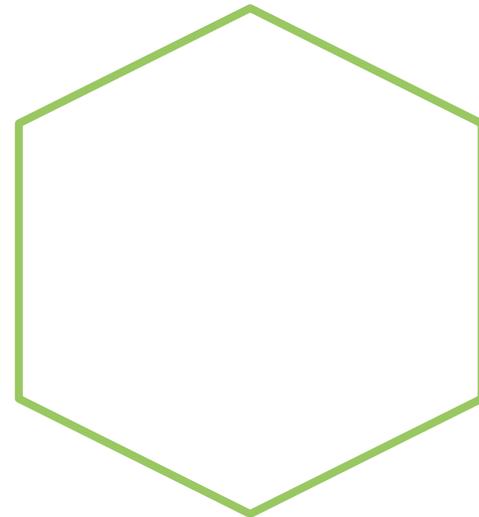

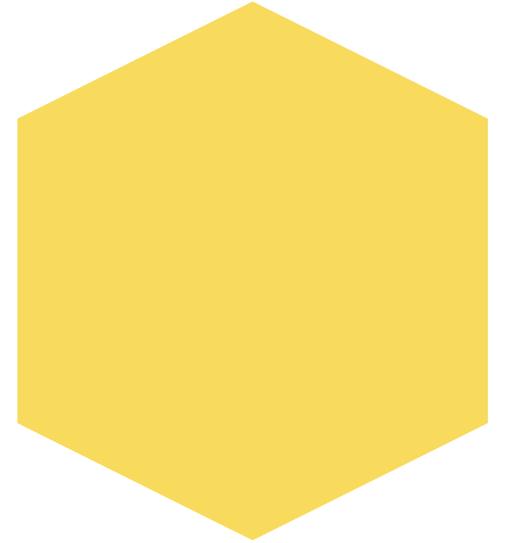

Why an organisational model?

- to continue work in the following years:
- sharing knowledge and learning,
- managerial and financial support

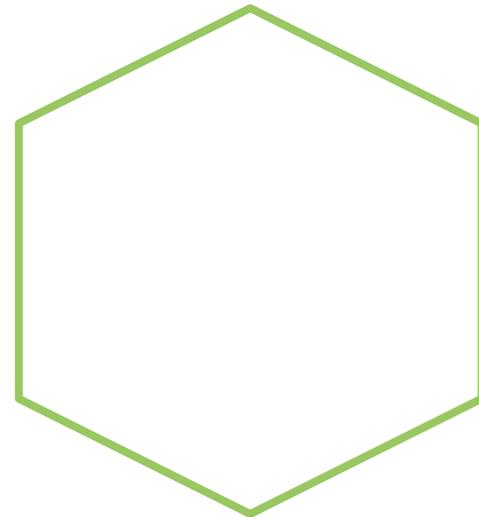

Options

- Formal, dedicated organization
- Network organization
- Hybrid form

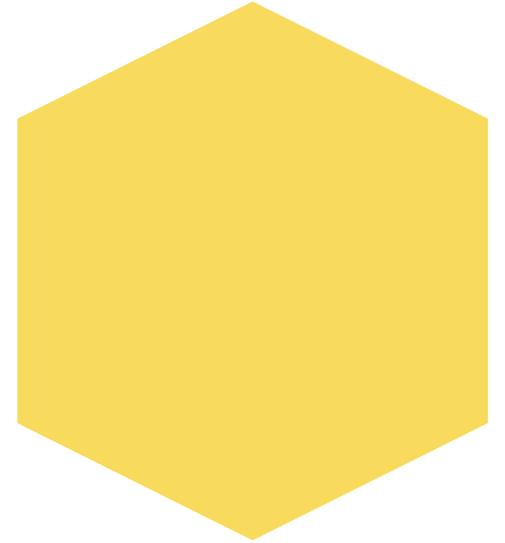

Formal organization

- Status, recognition, authority
- Clear structure > easier to guarantee good performance
- Requires formal commitments
- Resource-intensive
- Requires substantial investment

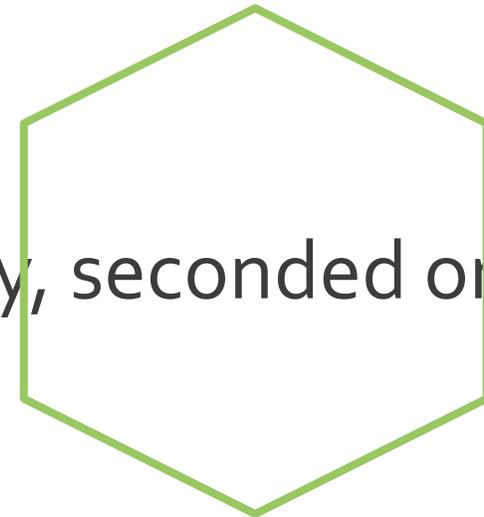

Network organization

- Informal, cooperative
- Self-governing
- Less bureaucracy, more efficiency
- Participation based on personal commitment
- Easier & cheaper to set up and maintain
- Non-committal, less transparent, lack of accountability

Hybrid

- Choices on governance, level of formality
- Use space, facilities, (human resources) from host
- Requires a hosting organisation
- Commitment from host (temporary)
- Dedicated tasks performed by temporary, seconded or contracted HR

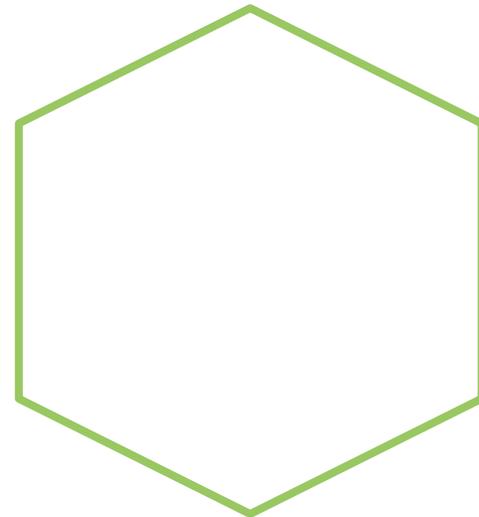

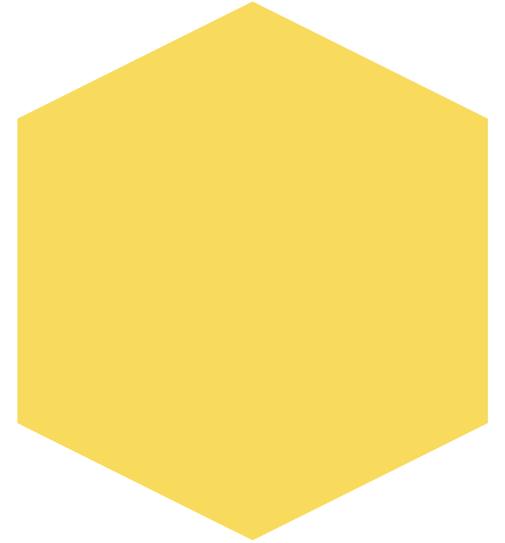

Assess options

Desired character of Coalition:

- Lively learning network
- Informal governance
- 'Lean & mean' > efficient

But offset drawbacks & risks!

Proposal

- Network organization
- Certain conditions to manage drawbacks & risks:
 - Leadership through revolving chair
 - Support through secretariat (events, newsletter, website, liaison)
 - Form of governance & rule book, operating mode
 - Evaluation

For discussion!

www.promotepollinators.org